PREFACE.

EXPLANATORY.

Several severe and protracted spells of sickness of our junior, and the temporary devolution upon our senior of the office of County Attorney, with such a press of official business as to leave him little or no time for other work, have delayed the publication of the TEXAS LEGAL DIRECTORY far beyond the time anticipated. We trust, however, that after an examination of its contents the gentlemen of the bar will place it among those things whose occurrence is better late than never. To our advance subscribers, who have waited on us so patiently, and to many of whom we are greatly indebted for words of encouragement and approval, we extend our sincere and hearty thanks.

Believing that a Texas Legal Directory was a want generally felt by the legal profession of the State, we have begun its publication. Like most new enterprises, it has been attended with much preliminary expense and labor. We sent out three thousand circular blanks of inquiry, consulted the members of the last Legislature, and gentlemen of the bar in attendance on the Supreme and Federal Courts, and also availed ourselves of the kindness of legal friends in furnishing us with correct lists of the bars of their respective counties. If the directory itself be found incomplete or incorrect, it will not be due to the lack of effort on our part to make it correct. Some changes in firms and also in locations have doubtless occurred, and new arrivals come in since that portion of the copy was made up. These changes we have noted whenever apprised of them, and we believe our list will be found substantially correct.

Many who answered our inquiries will doubtless be surprised to find their records very much abridged, but a moment's thought will show them the impropriety of inserting a military record in a Legal Directory; nor have we taken any note of official positions in merely private corporations. The price for which the book is furnished compels us to economize space as much as possible, though we believe we are furnishing more valuable matter for the price than was ever before offered the Texas attorney. If we have succeeded in making it a reference book that shall often be consulted and always with confidence of its correctness, where correctness is attainable, we shall be satisfied, though the pecuniary compensation for our labor continue to remain, as it is like to do, in futuro.

Inasmuch as a Congressional election occurs this month we have not endeavored to keep pace with the few changes that have taken place in the present Congress by death or resignation. The incompleteness of the lists of county officers is due to the fact that full returns have not yet been received. The table giving the times of holding the district courts was very carefully prepared and thoroughly verified, and we are confident it will be found correct. It has been our aim to furnish correct summaries which would save much time and labor of search, and in this we believe we have succeeded.

In this connection, we return thanks, for courteous assistance rendered us, to Hon. A. W. DeBerry and Messrs. Bowman, Mitchell and Ellis, of the Secretary of State's office; Hon. S. H. Darden and J. D. McCall, of the Comptroller's; Hon. J. J. Groos, Commissioner; W. B. Dunham, Esq., of the Attorney-General's office, Major de Normandie, clerk Supreme Court; Mr. Ferris, clerk Court of Appeals; and Mr. Mitchell, Deputy clerk Federal Court.

We also indulge the hope that the Directory will have some influence in promoting a better acquaintance and stimulating the professional feeling and pride of the lawyers throughout the State. The condition of our statute books, the immense mass of our laws, the utter crudity of many of them, the impossibility of making king's English, to say nothing of design and accomplished intention, out of many others, and the utter want of harmony prevailing the whole, is well known to the legal profession, and is beginning to be suspected by the general public.

The able and faithful commission which has been appointed to revise and digest the statutes will do much toward remedying these evils, but there is very much of the past beyond their control, and the future is wholly so. That future—we speak of the legal future of Texas—is in very great measure in the hands of her lawyers, and whenever the great bar of the State unite for the purpose of guiding and directing her legislation, it will be done. Without union, it will be impossible; without acquaintance, union cannot take place; hence one reason of being of the Texas Legal Directory.

In subsequent editions, which we expect to publish biennially or as often as may be called for, we hope to add to the value of the work, and profiting by the experience of the past, to be on time. Whereupon we submit our case.

AUSTIN, November, 1876.
